

KR Swim Squad Ambitions Poem

KEEP AWAY FROM PEOPLE WHO TRY TO BELITTLE YOUR AMBITIONS

The swimmer stood up on the block
She turned her eyes up to the clock
She looked across the pool and sighed
Then went within and reached inside

Down to her soul for the strength to race
To go the length at a mighty pace
The gun it roared the start began
She swam the race like no one can

The crowd did cheer...a mighty sound
The champion swimmer held her ground
She touched the end...it was first place
A smile broke out across her face

Her fist reached up into the sky
And then she gave out an almighty cry
For there it is right at the end
It is you against yourself my friend

So reach within and grab the dream

And push yourself to your extreme
And win the race you have made your goal
In swimming...or in your life's great role.
